

Inamed Manufacturing

Arklow, Co. Wicklow

The Inamed development in Arklow was constructed for the Allergan corporation. It comprises of a 4,000 square metre extension of manufacturing, distribution & research facilities for prosthetic breast products.

Ethos was involved for the duration of the project providing mechanical and electrical design, tendering, procurement and site supervision services to the client. The project presented a number of interesting challenges relating to the connection and integration of services to the existing facility adjacent.
